APM
employment services

Fast and free

APM Employment Services can help you find the right people to fill your vacancies when you need them.

As a national Workforce Australia Services provider, we have access to thousands of job seekers ready to start work right now.

Plus, hiring through your local APM Employment Services team provides you and your business with multiple benefits including training and support.

We can:

- Find local people ready to work as soon as possible
- Screen and match suitable job seekers to your business
- Access wage subsidies up to $10,000 for eligible employees
- Organise pre-employment training specific to your industry
- Help job seekers access support for tools, uniforms, and transport
- Provide on-site support so you and your new employee are happy together

Right fit, right now

We assess each job seeker to match them to your vacancy and provide you the information you need, including:

- Skills, experience, and work history
- Personality, motivation, and career goals
- Physical suitability for job types
- Availability for work
- Police and Working with Children checks (where required)

We work with job seekers to ensure there's a good understanding of their ability to carry out the specific tasks and duties for your role.

If required, we can supply you with resumes to review or tailor a job profile to your specifications.

Wage subsidies up to $10,000

One benefit of hiring through APM Employment Services is access to wage subsidies of up to $10,000 for each eligible employee.

Paid by the Australian Government, wage subsidies allow you to reduce your business costs when you hire full or part-time workers.

Our employment consultants will work with you to:

- Detail the eligibility requirements for wage subsidies
- Identify the amount of subsidy available for eligible job seekers
- Guide you through the process of accessing the funds
- Advise you on when you will receive the wage subsidy

Engage with experience

Welcoming a mature job seeker aged 50 or above into your team can provide multiple benefits to your business.

At APM Employment Services we regularly encounter job seekers with decades of experience looking for a change in career.

We've also seen how mature workers help with welcoming new customers, establishing local connections in the community and help support less-experienced team members.

Speak to your local APM team about finding mature workers to benefit your business.

Train young talent

Through APM Employment Services, you can access programs to welcome young workers and train them for roles in your business.

Transition to Work and the Youth Jobs PaTH service enable you to trial young workers through a tailored internship.

We can work with you to develop training programs so young workers can learn about the skills needed in your industry.

And we can help you access financial support for hosting an intern.

Youth programs vary in different regions and your local APM team can help you find the best options for your business.

Strengthen your team

With more than 500 APM locations delivering programs across Australia, our experienced teams understand the issues facing local employers and the support they need.

Your dedicated APM consultant can guide you on the valuable benefits available to help new employees settle into ongoing employment in your team.

Training, tools, and transport

Where appropriate we help job seekers access skills and training required for your role so you can be confident they're ready to work when you need them. These may include:

- Accredited training, or non-accredited training
- Cards, licences, and certificates (such as forklift ticket, responsible service of alcohol, competency in safe knife handling, and others)

We can also help your employee access financial support for:

- Transport to and from work
- Essential tools and equipment
- Uniforms or required clothing

Relocation assistance

If you are having difficulty finding suitable employees in your local area, you may be able to benefit from relocation support.

As part of this process, we'll guide suitable job seekers on the process to apply for financial assistance to relocate and take up ongoing employment or an apprenticeship.

Employable Me

APM's exclusive recruitment platform can help you stay on top of future hiring needs and always have the right people for your team.

The dedicated Employable Me team tailor job profiles to your business and give you instant access to thousands of registered job seekers.

After registering, your business will be showcased to job seekers across the platform. You will also gain 24/7 access to resources to help you grow your business and find out about other incentives available to employers.

You can self-manage your employer profile or ask the Employable Me team to do it for you.

Together it makes hiring more employees, faster and more reliable than ever before.
