

Injury rehabilitation services

We can help your team member make a positive return to work, quickly and safely.

APM WorkCare has more than 25 years of experience in helping Australian businesses to maintain safe and productive workplaces.

APM WorkCare is located in all states and territories across Australia, including local teams based in a variety of regional areas. Therefore, when you partner with APM WorkCare you will receive services delivered by a national network of qualified and experienced health professionals including physiotherapists, occupational therapists, psychologists, exercise physiologists and registered nurses.

Our same employer and new employer return to work services include:

- Return to work planning
- Comprehensive case management for physical and psychological claims
- Detailed worksite assessments
- Health and wellness training
- Job analysis (job dictionary)
- Functional capacity evaluations
- Ergonomic assessments
- Productivity assessments/work match assessments
- Support to manage complex workers' compensation and insurance claims
- Assessments and reports for medico-legal requirements
- Vocational assessments
- Capacity to earn assessments
- Job readiness programs
- Connected employer network for host employment opportunities
- The use of our award-winning app, APMiQ, to enhance recovery outcomes of injured workers
- Innovative virtual reality pain recovery program to aid in recovery and minimise barriers due to pain

We know close communication and collaboration is essential to achieving the best return to work outcomes, and the economic benefits this brings to a business. At APM WorkCare we pride ourselves on simple, clear and regular case reviews and communication between all key parties, including your employee's medical practitioner, supervisor and your insurer.

To engage our return to work services, refer today via workcare@apm.net.au

